Breach Type:	Electronic
Date Breach was Discovered:	09/08/2017
Number of Massachusetts Residents Affected:	0
Person responsible for data breach.:	Former Employee
Please give a detailed explanation of how the data breach occurred.:	In October, 2016 we scanned H-1B petitions filed on behalf of two client employees in preparation for posting them to the respective employees' web portals. In the process of scanning, we inadvertently placed the filing letter for employee A on top of the petition filed on behalf of employee M (a New Jersey resident). The entire petition for employee M was then posted to employee A's web portal. The mistake was discovered on September 8, 2017 when employee A reviewed the H-1B filing and discovered that it was not his. We were informed via email on the evening of September 8, and investigated the matter on Monday morning, September 11. We immediately removed employee M's H-1B petition from employee A's web portal, rescanned employee M's petition and placed it on his portal.
Please select the type of personal information that was included in the breached data.:	Social Security Numbers = Selection(s)

No

Law enforcement has been notified of this data breach.:

No

Please describe how your company responded to the breach. Include what changes were made or may be made to prevent another similar breach from occurring.:

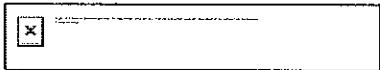

Going forward, we will have a checklist to ensure that materials posted to the secure web portal belong or pertain only to the individual who has access to that web portal. This should prevent inadvertently uploading documents to the wrong portal. Deliberately uploading documents belonging to a different person would be a direct violation of the Chin & Curtis WISP and would be cause for dismissal.
